

I have been extremely unsatisfied by recent decisions made by the FCC so I am writing this since it appears you need my help. As a current XM radio subscriber I pay for the content they deliver and I do not want the FCC to control any part of it. I am tired of major entities attempts to stifle innovation and competition from other sources. Janet Jackson's larger than life nipple has significantly disrupted the programming I enjoy from most media sources. Lets not let the NAB show their nipple on this one.
